Companies concerned about attracting and retaining the best employees are continually looking for ways to add value to their workplace. Studies have shown that one of the most effective ways to increase loyalty is to make an investment in the continuing education and training of employees. Employees that are motivated to get their bachelor’s degree through the sponsorship of the company are likely to be more productive and take initiative on the job.

Offering tuition assistance programs communicates a commitment to your employees and a concern with their personal development. Delivering an educational program on-site at your corporate location is a workplace innovation that provides a significant convenience to the employee/student. With their busy work schedule and family commitments, the convenience of a program on-site can often make the difference in their decision to attend school.
