In the early morning hours of Jan. 19, 2000, the lives of thousands or maybe even millions were changed as a result of a great tragedy. On the campus of Seton Hall University in South Orange, N.J., while most of the more than 600 freshmen slept, an arson fire was started in the third floor lounge of Boland Hall, a six-story freshmen residence hall. As the fire alarms wailed, most students thought it was just another false fire alarm, like the 30 or more false alarms that sounded the semester before. No one had any idea that there was a real fire, let alone where the fire was or how to get out of harms way. 7 p.m., Memorial Chapel
